

Website brief for the build team

This is the starting point for the NODA website. It explains who the brand is, how it should feel, and what we want built for the first pass. We are early — content is limited — so structure and tone matter more than final copy. Use the reference sites named here to shape the layout, and hold the premium bar throughout.

01 What we're building

NODA makes fast-dissolving vegan oral strips for daily wellness — no water, no pills, one strip straight into your system. The range is organised by outcome, one saturated colour per category. Sleep leads the launch.

02 The brand, in one screen

High-end, quiet, confident. We take our restraint from houses like Loewe and Aesop and clean science brands like Seed — generous space, one bold colour at a time, no clutter. The full system lives in the Colour & Type Exploration; the essentials are below.

TAN Ashiord — display

Archivo — body & ingredients

Use TAN Ashiord for the wordmark and headlines — a high-contrast display serif that lifts the brand toward quiet luxury. Pair it with Archivo for body and ingredients. TAN Ashiord is a licensed font (we'll supply the files); the specimen above is a serif stand-in.

THE MARK

A rising sun and a dial — renewal. It sits inside the O of the wordmark and works in one colour anywhere.

03 References & what to take from each

Pull structure and patterns from these three. We do not copy any of them wholesale — we sit at the premium end, above nu strips.

REFERENCE	WHAT TO TAKE
seed.com Clean, science-led	The clean header and the calm, editorial pacing of the homepage. This is our model for navigation and overall restraint.
cymbiotika.ca Premium utilities	Header utilities and the premium feel: a country / language option, account, and cart. Note: no search button .
nustrips.com Category peer	The product structure — how strips and the Combo bundles are presented. Take the layout logic only; we hold a higher, more premium bar than they do.

04 The header

A clean, minimal header modelled on Seed, with Cymbiotika's utilities. Build it to the spec below.

05 The main page

A recommended section stack for the homepage, adapted from the references.

Because content is limited, lean on strong structure and imagery placeholders; we will supply final copy and photography.

01 Hero

One category in full colour, big wordmark, the primary CTA: Get first access to personalized sleep strips →. Sleep leads.

02 The range + Combo

Category cards, one colour each, plus a Combo bundle (per nu strips). Built to add categories without redesign.

03 How it works / Science

The strip format explained — no water, no pills — and the science, calm and editorial like Seed.

04 Take the quiz

Entry to personalization — supports the hero CTA. A short, premium quiz teaser, not a hard sell.

05 Sleep Journal + footer

A teaser of editorial content, then subscription sign-up, language option, and full nav in the footer.

06 Staying premium

The one non-negotiable: this must read as a premium brand, not a discount supplement store. When a choice is unclear, choose the quieter, more spacious option.

DO

- Generous whitespace; let colour and type carry the page
- Large, confident type; tight, deliberate spacing
- Slow, quiet motion and transitions
- Placeholder photos from online sources

DON'T

- Discount badges, countdown timers, loud pop-ups
- Rainbow gradients or many colours at once
- Cramped grids or wall-to-wall content
- Stock-icon clutter and unnecessary stats
- A search bar in the header
